Aims and Scope

Recognition of pediatric skin diseases has increased worldwide, creating the need for well-prepared health professionals on both clinical and para-clinical grounds. The histopathologic diagnosis of pediatric dermatoses is frequently made by general or pediatric pathologists with no formal training in dermatopathology. These diagnoses should be endorsed by specific formation in pediatric dermatopathology, followed by incorporation of these professionals to Dermatology and Pathology Departments where pediatric dermatologists are also trained.

In Mexico, pediatric dermatologists are trained at Hospital Infantil de México “Federico Gómez”, Instituto Nacional de Pediatría, Instituto Dermatológico de Jalisco “Dr. José Barba Rubio” and Hospital Civil de Guadalajara.

We have organized the First International Congress of Pediatric Dermatopathology in Mexico City to sensitize pathologists, dermatologists, dermatopathologists, pediatric dermatologists and pediatricians of the need of cooperation between all those involved in the diagnosis and management of pediatric patients with skin diseases.

This congress is based on the premise that interaction between dermatologists, dermatopathologists, pediatric pathologists and general pathologists should be mandatory in public and private institutions where pediatric patients with diverse skin diseases are attended.

The congress’s content has been thoroughly evaluated by pediatric dermatologists, general dermatologists, dermatopathologists and pathologists. It covers the areas of utmost importance for the diagnosis and management of pediatric dermatoses, by offering different views for the comprehensive approach of both common and unusual cutaneous disorders.

The audience will be placed on continuous self-assessment, in such a way that the knowledge experience may remain “printed” not only in a certificate but also in the memory of who recalls its own.

As a novelty in pediatric dermatology and pediatric dermatopathology congresses, we will have on line transmission, allowing those who cannot physically attend to accredit the academic experience through an exam developed by the scientific committee and the head professors.

For all the above, we expect this congress will meet your interests and expectations.

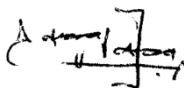

Cordially,
